How much cheese do you need?

Typically, expect to need about 30 – 50g of each cheese per person. Think about having a few really good cheeses, rather than lots of different ones – don't forget, your guests will have already tucked into at least two courses of Christmas dinner!

Looking after your cheese:

Most cheeses will be fine if you collect them up to five days before you're going to tuck in. Keep them in the fridge when you get them home (the salad drawer is a perfect spot for cheese!), but don't forget to give them a good two or three hours to come up to room temperature, so that they taste their best!

The small print:

All orders will require a deposit of 20% of the estimated cost, or £10, whichever is smaller.

Your contact details are essential to ensure we can do as much as possible to get your order to you in the event of an emergency. If you have indicated that you do not wish to receive the newsletter, your details will be destroyed once the order is completed. At no point will your details be passed onto any third party unless it is to ensure delivery of your order. In that event, any third party will be engaged solely on the understanding that they will care for your data as carefully as we do.

You can cancel your order up to one week before collection. After that point, cancellation will be at the company's discretion, and will depend on the likelihood of reselling any products ordered in for you. Uncollected orders that have not been cancelled according to these terms will require payment in full.

Any cheeses not usually stocked may have to be ordered as complete cheeses for you, and so will require payment in full in advance.
